OTTO, EVANS AND BIONDI STAR IN BEST EVER GAMES

It was the fastest meet in history.

11 world records and 22 countries winning medals attest to that.

Biondi, Evans, Otto and Salnikov can take their place with the greatest champions of any era.

Each is a product of their system.

Otto, muscular and confident, is the prize product of the GDR sports assembly line. A diamond polished by methods as scientific and intense as any on earth.

Biondi, tall, dark and handsome is a veteran of four successful years in the American collegiate system, the most intense competitive environment in the sport. An economics graduate from the University of California at Berkeley, he may continue on the international scene playing water polo, his first love.

Janet Evans is the best distance swimmer of all time. Her three golden efforts were the best example of what the Olympics are about—swim to win.

That she did and how. In every race she took the lead early and made everyone chase after her. That's the hard way.

Vladimir Salnikov wanted to be remembered as a winner.

In 1986-87, he couldn't even make the finals at the World and Eurpean Championships. But he came Seoul to swim one last 1500, and event he owned from 1978 until 1985. For some, his victory on the last night of the swimming program will be the greatest comeback ever.

For eight days the swimmers lived a lifetime. Some were successful beyond their dreams. Many were disappointed.

All will be better for the experience.

Canadian expectations were raised by the fine performances going into these games. The two relay medals were the product of extraoridnary effort. Individual swims fell short, sometimes by hundreds of a second, costing Higson, Davis and Pontings medals. Others were off their best times and didn't even reach the finals.

"We're not doing the job," Cameron Grant stated. "I haven't even phoned home since my first race because I don't want to know how the folks are reacting."

Kristin Otto, GDR, greatest ever

Edmonton's Keltie Duggan expressed "A lot of us are really in awe of the swimmers here. People like Kristin Otto are miraculous. Her wins the three stroke 100's are absolutely amazing. She's quite a bit older (22) than most of us.

"We're not giving up. We know there's work to do. We know now how tough it is. We don't feel good that we haven't produced. We're doing the best we can. Nobody here is on a lark."

Everyone tried their very best.

Swimming's two medals were 20% of the Canadian total of 10. Other highlights:

All Olympic photographs are by Lewko Hryhorijiw Toronto, Ontario

Four out five relays reached finals, three in record time.

We placed swimmers in eight individual finals and twice had two entries reach finals.

Jon Kelly did life-time bests in both his swims. Debbie Wurzburger missed the final, but ther ninth place performance was one of two Canadian individual records. Higson and Ponting were out of the race completely in their first events, recovered later to finish fourth in their next swims.

Performances improved as the meet progressed—both relay medals came on the last two days.

The week ended on a positive note, it's hard to explain the earlier disappointments.

Trevor Tiffany, General Manager of the team feels the greater latitude given to individual coaches to prepare their own athletes-was a mistake."Many feel we need to centralize our preparation. Our approach this time was a response to the experience we had in 1982-84."

Head coach Dave Johnson feels this team could have been more productive, "We need fewer chiefs and more indians. The lack of consistent national leadership is definitely a weakness."

Tiffany believes a basic restructuring is needed in Swimming Canada. The current organization is a loose association of provinces, each more concerned with their own program than the common goal.

"National should concentrate on the elite. I'd like to put most of the money where it will do the most good, instead of trying to keep everyone happy. If I'm unpopular in four years it will mean that we'd made progress."

Meanwhile Sport Canada, where Swimming gets 50% of its budget, leans in the opposite direction, emphasizing participation.

"We'll win when can go our own way and run our programs without someone else's money. It's no good for them to give us a million dollars and then tell us how to spend $900,000 of it."

Whatever the solution, we owe it to our hard working swimmers to find it soon.

DAY 1-2

Heats Sept. 18, 9 am
Finals Sept. 19, 12 noon
Women 100 free
Men 100 breast
Women 400 IM
Men 200 free

"I gave it my best shot," said Victor Davis after finishing fourth in the 100 breaststroke. "Nothing was wrong. I was more focused and more confident than I've been in four years."

Despite that Davis was seventh at the 50 (29.44) as Soviet Dimitri Volkov set a torrid pace of 28.12. Volkov was not able to sustain his rhythm and the field caught him close to the end. It was a mad scramble for the medals. Moorhouse, GBR, touched in 1:02.04 and Hungary's Karoly Guttler just a 1/100th behind for the silver. Volkov finished third in 1:02.20.

With his only individual race of the meet behind him, Davis coolly commented that, "The only thought that's crossing my mind right now is getting ready for the relay."

Kristin Otto made it look easy as she won the 100 free in 54.93 (just off her own world record). Zhuang Yong's silver (55.47) was the first ever medal for China and France's surprising Catherine Plewinski got the bronze.

Janet Evans showed that size is not everything with her spectacular win in the fastest ever 400 IM. The first three swimmers all went under 4:40. Evans lagged behind on the fly leg and but didn't lose momenteum and stroked her way to the gold.

It was one of the classic upsets in swimming as unheralded Duncan Armstrong of Australia stole the 200 free. The race for the medals was historic:

Armstrong	25.46	53.02	1:20.05	1:47.25
Holmertz	25.16	52.21	1:20.03	1:47.89
Biondi	24.98	52.25	1:19.62	1:47.99
Wojdat	25.66	53.58	1:20.80	1:48.40
Gross	25.65	53.36	1:20.88	1:48.59

Armstrong 50's were 25.46, 27.56, 27.03, 27.20 to Biondi's 24.98, 27.27, 27.37, 28.37. The Aussie swam a perfect text-book paced race. Biondi ran out of steam in the last length. Armstrong's best was two years ago with 1:50.17. He came into this meet with a season's best of 1:51.18. It proves that anyone can win if they want it badly enough.

The biggest bust was Italy's Lamberti, who has a personal best of 1:47.90 He failed to reach finals with a prelim swim of 1:50.47.

DAY 3-4

Heats Sept. 20, 9 am
Finals Sept. 21, 12 noon
Men 100 fly
Women 200 free
Men 400 IM
Women 200 breast
Men 4x200 Free Relay

It was a three world record day.

There was record in the women's 200 free, but there were no surprises either. Mitzi Kremer, USA, had the early lead but faded out of the race in the second 100.

It became the battle of the Germans; the two from the GDR and one from Coast Rica. Silvia Poll's West German parents moved to Central America which is where she's done all her swimming. A finalist at the 1986 Worlds, she was the star of last summer's Pan Ams and her swim here was no surprise.

Heike Friedrich took the gold and Manuela Stellmach the bronze. Poll squeezed inbetween to grab the silver.

Hungarian Tamas Darnyi bettered his own world record handily winning the 400 IM. American hope Wharton, briefly had the lead but was three seconds back after Darnyi's superb backstroke leg. The bronze went to Italy's Battistelli, their only medal.

Higson stepped up to the starting blocks for the 200 breaststroke as a terrified world-record holder, and less than three minutes later left the pool as a devastated seventh-place finisher.

Silke Horner, GDR, regained her world record with splits of 32.88, 1:10.24 (37.36), 1:47.38 (37.14) and 2:26.71 (39.33). She chased Tania Dangalakova for the first half catching her midway through the third length. She faded out of the medals finishing fourth. China's Xiaomin Huang and another Bulgarian Antoaneta Frenkeva settled for silver and bronze. All three had to swim lifetime bests.

Higson was second for the first half of the race, but when the pressure rose it hit her like a tidal wave.

Janet Evans, USA

Matt Biondi took the 100 fly out like a veteran, turning first in 24.53, but he finished like a rookie. Biondi was about a stroke short of the wall and glided in, losing the gold by 1/100th to Anthony Nesty of Surinam 53.00 to 53.01. Britain's Andy Jameson finished third in 53.30. All three posted lifetime bests.

Nesty is not the mystery the media made him out to be. He's done most of his swimming in Florida and has steadily improved. He was fifth at the Worlds in 1986 and won the Pan Ams last summer.

Biondi didn't let the defeat affect him for long. Half an hour later he anchored the American team in what many anticipated to be the highlight of the Games.

The US was fifth after the first two swimmers and was slightly behind the GDR when Biondi hit the water for the final 200. He caught Steffen Zesner in the first 50 then pulled away to win in 7:12.51, dropping just over half-a-second on the old world record. Biondi's anchor leg was a stunning 1:46.44, the fastest ever. GDR took the silver and the West Germans third. Australia was fourth, in 7:15.23, a four second drop off their best from last year. Canada reached the finals after finishing ninth in the heats when the Soviets were disqualified. Both their heat and final times were best ever record swims. They finished eighth.

DAY 5

Heats Sept. 22, 9 am
Finals Sept. 22, 8 pm
Women 400 free
Men 100 free
Women 100 back
Men 200 back
Women 4x100 Free Relay

The finals started with the greatest women's 400 freestyle battle ever seen. Janet Evans splits tell the story:

Evans	58.99	2:02.14	3:03.40	4:03.85
Friedrich	1:00.23	2:02.49	3:03.56	4:05.94
Mohring	1:00.27	2:02.51	3:05.27	4:06.62

All three had lifetime bests. Evans bettered her world record by two seconds and stunned Friedrich with her a second 200 of 2:01.72 and a last 100 of 1:00.45 to Friedrich's 1:02.38.

The 100 free was Matt Biondi's race. If the others wanted to get in the water to fight for the silver and bronze it was alright with him. Surprisingly silver went to Chris Jacobs, USA with the second fastest time ever done (49.08). European record holder, Stephan Caron, FRA, finished third followed by two Soviet sprinters.

Biondi's winning margin was evident almost immediately after the start. He had a half-a-second lead on the field after the first 20 metres and maintained it to the finish.

Otto made it two in a row with an easy win in the 100 backstroke, it was her fastest ever time. 14-year-old Egerszegi of Hungary got the silver ahead of veteran Cornelia Sirch,GDR.

Polianski didn't have too hard a struggle to get his gold in the 200 backstroke, holding off a strong surge from the GDR's Frank Baltrusch. Both went under two minutes. New Zealand's Paul Kingsman, swimming in lane one, touched out Zabolotnov,URS for the bronze by 4/100ths. His time of 2:00.48 was new Commonwealth record.

The women's 4x100 free relay was a solid win for the GDR, with an inspired Dutch team beating the USA for the silver.China in finishing fourth with had the distinction of having the fastest swimmer of the meet with Yong Zhuang's anchor split of 54.25.

Canada moved to sixth after qualifying eighth. And their time of 3:46.75 was a Commonwealth and Canadian record.

DAY 6

Heats Sept. 23, 10 am
Finals Sept. 23, 8 pm
Men 400 free
Women 100 fly
Men 200 breast
Women 100 breast
Men 4x100 Free Relay
Women 800 free (am heats)

The men's 400 free was a scorcher. All eight qualifiers bettered the old Olympic record of 3:50.91.

American Matt Cetlinski had the lead for most of the race but missed the bronze by 3/100ths. A strong finish by the GDR's Uwe Dassler gave him the gold and a new world record.

Dassler	55.30	1:53.17	2:51.40	3:46.95
Armstrong	56.41	1:55.10	2:52.13	3:47.15
Wojdat	54.78	1:52.98	2:51.06	3:47.34
Cetlinski	54.57	1:52.45	2:50.46	3:48.09

Armstrong had the most interesting race. He was swimming in lane one which gave him the advantage of being able to steal the race in its later stages. He was last after the first 100 with a time of 56.41. He then added another slow 100 of 58.69, but started to make his move. His third 100 was 57.03 and his final one a 55.02. It was not quite enough. Armstrong's hope of doubling 200-400 remains to be done. His best previous 400 time was 3:52.25 in 1986.

Dassler had a more conventional race with 100's of 55.30, 57.87, 58.23 and 55.55.

"It was a race of wills," said Dassler. "As always, I swam my own race. It's not really a question of tactics. I just swam the fastest possible race aiming for the record figuring that those fastest will always win."

Hungary's Jozsef Szabo won the 200 breaststroke just shy of the world record.Canada's Jon Cleveland qualified fifth and finished seventh for a creditable showing.

Allison Higson completed the fastest 100 breaststroke of her life, but missed a medal by 3/100ths of a second. She was beaten at the wall by Silke Horner, GDR, who in a rare misjudged race went out too fast (31.58) and had just enough at the finish to slap the wall ahead of Higson.

The gold and silvers went to a pair of Bulgarians. Higson was just 12/100ths shy of a silver.

What could have made the difference Allison was asked after the race:

"Anywhere, everywhere."

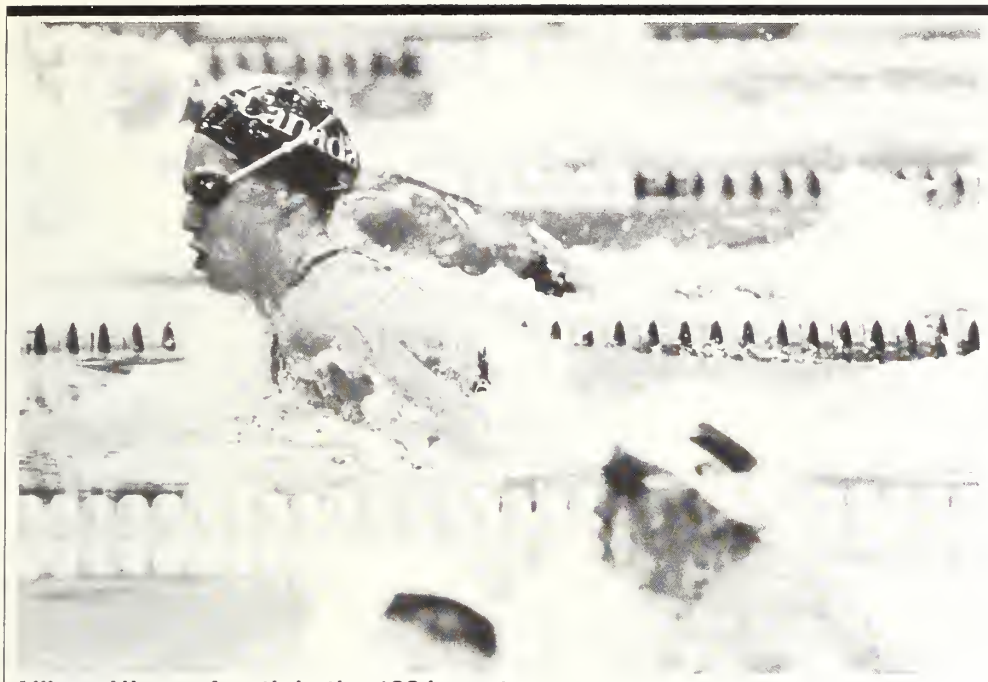
Higson will be 19 at the next Olympics. Medals at these Games in her specialty went to swimmers who were 23 and 24 years old. Time is on her side.

The USA easily won the 4x100 free relay. In the lead for all four legs they were never in trouble. Biondi's anchor insured the new world record. Canada didn't reach the finals, finishing ninth in the prelims.

DAY 7

Heats Sept. 24, 10 am
Finals Sept. 24, 8 pm
Women 200 IM
Men 200 fly
Men 50 free
Women 800 free
Men 100 back
Women 4x100 Medley Relay
Men 1500 free (am heats)

Jon Cleveland finalist in 200 breaststroke



Allison Higson fourth in the 100 breast

Daniela Hunger left no doubt that she's next in line as the GDR's superstar when Queen Kristin retires.

The 16-year-old's winning 200 IM time was the third fastest ever, behind two GDR superstars of the early 80's, Geweniger and Schneider. In the front for the first half, then seriously challenged by Soviet Dendeberova, whose superior breast leg gave her the lead, Daniela sprinted home to a body length win.

After a frustrating week, Michael Gross got his gold medal in the 200 fly, Denmark's Benny Nielsen won the silver and Anthony Mosse of New Zealand won the bronze while Canada's Tom Porting finished fourth. Ironically Mosse has been training the past couple of summer with Etobicoke's Paul Bergen.

The men's 50 free was Biondi's last chance at an individual world record. He had set an Olympic record in the heats, but his teammate Tom Jager, the master of the 'psyche job', still considered the fastest sprinter of the finalists, was given a slight edge.

With barely 23 seconds to complete the race, the eight finalists swam through the distance as one but Biondi touched first in 22.14 after gradually gaining a few inches on the field.

"I swam a good race (22.36)," Jager said. "Matt swam a great race. That is the difference."

In a stunning upset, David Berkoff,USA, the best exponent of the revolutionary underwater backstroke start, broke his world record in the heats of the 100. In the evening final, he had a terrible start and finished with a silver. Japan's Daichi Suzuki won the gold. Several years ago Suzuki burst on the scene as the the first person to use the submarine start successfully.

Mark Tewksbury finished fifth and Sean Murphy suffering the effects of a intense fever (third ranked in the world) faded to eighth.

Evans ended the week with another gold in the 800 free. The charmed 17-year-old said, "How ever happy a person can be; that's how happy I am."

Janet struggles to maintain her weight (just around 100 lbs) and was proud to announce, "I've only lost two pounds since I've been here. I do have to work at it and each day force myself to eat as much as possible."

Sensible beyond her age, the potential of cashing in on her new found fame didn't seem important, "I'm not really sure about that. A good education is still a top priority for me. Nobody will convince me otherwise."

The 800 illustrated various schools of racing. Evans even split the race, putting away the field early and maintaining her speed (2:04.04, 2:06.02, 2:05.54, 2:04.60), Strauss of the GDR let her get away and then had to swim catch-up (2:05.03, 2:07.93, 2:05.52, 2:03.61). Australia's Julie McDonald in finishing third has to wonder if she misjudged the whole race by going out too slow (2:06.97, 2:07.76, 2:05.08, 2:03.12). Her last 400 was 4:08.20, but with a first half of 4:14.73 she was too far back.

Canada's Debbie Wurzbuger was 9th after the prelims, but her 8:36.24 was a lifetime best and Canadian record.

Teamwork in the women's 4x100 medley relay helped Canada to its first Olympic medal at the swimming pool. The team of Lori Melien, Allison Higson, Jane Kerr and Andrea Nugent sprinted to a 4:10.49 for a new Canadian record.

As expected the GDR won the gold with 4:03.74 and the USA took the silver in 4:07.90.

For Higson the bronze medal took away some of the sting of the previous weeks defeats. "It's a good way to end the meet," she said. "I kind of expected I would feel this good during my individual events."

Two fresh swimmers swam at night after Keltie Duggan (breast) and Patricia Noall (free) helped qualify the relay in the morning.

China's disqualification was an added boost. They would have likely challenged the USA for second.

DAY 8

Heats Sept. 25, 10 am
Finals Sept. 25, 8 pm
Men 200 IM
Women 200 fly
Women 50 free
Men 1500 free
Women 200 back
Men 4x100 Medley Relay

Hungary's Tamas Darnyi set a world record in the 200 IM. The rewards for Darnyi are considerably more than a mere gold and the thrill of victory.

"I will get half a million zloyts for it," he said, converting the bonus to about $10,000 US. "After tax it will be less."

The women's 200 fly marked the end of a distinguished career for the USA's Mary T Meagher. At age 23 she was not quite the same teenager whose incredible world records for both distances (57.93 and 2:05.96 set in 1981) seem out of reach for years to come. GDR swimmers battled for the gold. Weigang set a torrid pace (28.61, 1:00.60, 1:04.15), but was caught by Kathleen Nord in the last few strokes. Meagher was never in the race for the gold and settled for bronze.

The women's 50 free was certain to produce a new Olympic record since it is a new Olympic event. Kristin Otto beat 16-year-old Wenyi Yang of China by a foot. Jill Sterkel, USA, tied for third with Katrin Meissner, GDR and each received a bronze medal.

After the race ended, Otto looking at the scoreboard realized what she had done. It was her sixth gold. Later she said she would now think about retirement.

Otto's been the undisputed queen of the sport for the past three seasons. She swept the 100 free-back and fly at the 1986 Worlds, 1987 Europeans and here. In 1986 she also won the 200 IM, an event she no longer swims due to a weak breaststroke leg.

In an amazing return from virtual oblivion, Vladimir Salnikov, 28 URS, won the 1500 free by 3 metres in 15:00.40. Not surprisingly his biggest fan is Janet Evans. "I'm a great fan of Salnikov," she said. "Every chance I've had I've watched him swim. He's been a great inspiration."

Salnikov, a Soviet Army captain, has been the world record holder in the event since 1980. Twelve years ago at the Montreal Olympics, he finished fifth. From 1978-85 he was undefeated. He failed to reach finals at the Worlds in 1986 and the Europeans in 1987. It seemed time to retire.

He did not earn selection at the Soviet Trials in July. In late August there was a second opportunity to come to Korea. After a 800 time trial (8:03.55) in early September during the Canadian B team's dual meet with the Soviets he decided to come to Seoul.

Asked about his unexpected win, "I like swimming," he said. "I just couldn't stop. I've spent 20 years in this sport. It's a big part of my life. I've had victories and defeats. The only thing that remained was this. Now I can retire."

Finishing a surprising second was Stefan Pfeiffer, FRG with 15:02.69. Uwe Dassler of the GDR was third after leading the race for the first few hundred metres.

The prelims were held the day before and it took 15:17.56 to qualify (actually that was ninth, as Jorg Hoffmann, GDR, 15:14.13 scratched the final). It had to be one of the hardest prelim rounds ever, unable to reach finals were Australia's Michael McKenzie and the two Canadians Chris Chalmers 15:23.22 and Harry Taylor 15:30.31.

Chris Jacobs, Troy Dalbey, Tom Jager. Matt Biondi, USA 4x100 FR

More proof that bigger isn't always better. In the women's 200 backstroke, Hungary's 14-year-old Krisztina Egerszegi, at 5'-4" and 95 lbs was the smallest medal winning competitor. She makes up for her lack of size with perhaps the best backstroke technique seen in years. She battled the GDR giants Zimmermann 5'-8" and Sirch 5'-9":

Egerszegi	30.32	1:02.99	1:35.88	2:09.29
Zimmermann	30.83	1:03.59	1:37.03	2:10.61
Sirch	30.20	1:02.79	1:36.47	2:11.45

Canada's second swimming medal came in the final event of the meet. Victor Davis, had an argument with one of the coaches who wanted the team to bear down and get the bronze. Davis wanted nothing less than the silver, and he wasn't too subtle in letting the coach know it. "I never had any doubts we could beat the Soviets," Davis said. "To be realistic it was impossible for us to beat the US. We could take the Soviets provided we all swam up to our capabilities."

It was Sandy Goss' amazing anchor leg that really did it. His time was the third fastest free split ever done.

Davis' split of 1:00.90 equalled the best ever split. Later he called this silver medal the proudest moment of his swimming career.

After Tewksbury's backstroke leg Canada was fourth behind the US, URS and Japan. Davis, caught the Japanese team and was only 3/100th behind the Soviets.

"If I'd felt that good in the individual 100 breaststroke race I would have won." he said.

Tom Ponting lost ground to the Soviets and it was up to Goss.

He had never been under 50 seconds on a relay, but his final time of 48.75 caught the Soviets about 15 metres from the finish.

"I always thought I had in me," Goss said. It was just a matter of the right circumstances to pull it out."

The Soviets watched the Canadians celebrate in stunned silence.

Davis, Ponting and Goss were also on the 1984 silver medal medley relay.

After the medal ceremony, Davis was holding his silver-medal box in one hand, the Canadian flag in the other. It was how he would like to be remembered.

Before the Olympics, Matt Biondi shuddered when told he should win seven golds. As it turned out he was surprised he won five.

Biondi's last medal came in the last event. His fly leg was an outstanding 52.38 (just shy of 52.31 the fastest ever split). They won by five metres in a time of 3:36.93, shattering their own 1985 world mark of 3:38.28.

After the medal ceremony, as Biondi entered the interview room, his latest gold medal fell off the ribbon and rolled on the floor. As he retrieved it, he said, "It's O.K. I've got others."

"Winning seven medals feels great. It's over now. I've always had goals to keep me swimming. I don't have any goals left."

SwimBase

SOFTWARE COACHING TOOLS THAT MAKE HISTORY !

We are pleased to announce that over the last two months the number of swimming clubs using SwimBase has doubled.

Do you know why?

Well, think about this. Small swim clubs might only have 30 swimmers total.

30 swimmers x 20 meets x 17 events x 4 heats x 4 years = 163,200 event times

Now just imagine what it will do for a large club.

OLYMPIC NOTEBOOK

The pressure of the ready room...

For 15 or 20 minutes before each race all the competitors are cooped up in the "ready room" before parading to poolside and around to the starting blocks. It is a invention that exists to make life smoother for the officials, not the swimmers.

"This is the epitome of pressure, just the eight of you in there," Victor Davis said. "I don't think there is any pressure like it. Here's eight guys who've had their lives on hold, physically and mentally, for 10 or 15 years, just preparing for this situation. There's tons of energy set loose in that place.

"Lundquist (1984 winner of the 100 breast) would eyeball people. He was Mr.Football Player, Mr.Weightlifter, the Intimidator. I don't play those tricks. My approach is to appear totally relaxed and unconcerned, now matter how churned up I am. Don't let them see you sweat. I knew I had Schroeder before we even went to the pool at last year's Pan Pacific's. He was psyched right out by the fact I did nothing at all.

"I wouldn't say I'm used to the pressure of the ready room. I wouldn't want to be. All that adrenaline is pumping. I don't want to shut it out. I feed off it."

The first time a ready room was usedwas back in 1971 at the Pan Am Games in Cali. Since then it's been in use in one form or other at all major Games. It can be a very intimidating situation. Apparently it allows the meet management to insure that all the swimmers for a heat or a final are in place.

Alex Baumann on being a TV analyst...

"There's a great deal of stress in the job; I always thought it was easy, but I know better now.

"But the real pressure is in the pool. Victor Davis trained hard for just over a minute's all-out effort and he wasn't in the medals. I actually ached for him after the race."

Now it can be revealed...

During Summer Nationals Paul Bergen admitted that he wasn't a 100% confident in his taper for Seoul. In an interview published in The Toronto Sun, September 10, he admitted that Higson, had not been training well in preparation for the Olympics. "Things were not looking good for the first few days in Salt Lake City," he said.

"If I could turn the clock back, I would. The second meet in California in July really did us in."

Earlier this summer, members of the Olympic team took part in meets at Santa Clara and Los Angeles. Bergen feels now that put too much of a strain on the athletes who had qualified for the team at the May trials.

The original plans by former National Coach Don Talbot were to have two week long training camps during June-July. But once he was let go, plans changed and the two training camps became one with a swim meet thrown in.

Fastest pool yet...

"The facilities are so outstanding that it's going to take a world record to win in almost every event," said Dave Johnson. "In Montreal at the 76 Olympics, 22 out 24 world records were broken. There are 31 events now and the only records that seem safe are the women's butterfly. Everything else is up for grabs (but only 11 new world marks were set, nine by the men but surprisingly only two by the women.).

"The combination of the pool's depth, width, clarity and wide splash gutters combine to make it perhaps the fastest pool ever.

"A simple thing like having a wide splash gutter means most wave action is removed from the pool. It is 10 lanes wide, instead of the minimum eight, which gives you two buffer lanes It also seems deeper than most pools."

Chamshil pool has a seating capacity of 4,500, on both side of the competition pool.

Relay take overs now electronic...

Another contentious aspect of our sport has been solved. Relay takeovers have been a major source of difficulties especially at the international level (remember the 1982 Commonwealth Games). Omega has refined the procedure which measures the difference between the incoming swimmer's hand touch and the departing swimmers release of pressure from the starting platform. A swimmer can leave late or at the time of the touch but not one hundred earlier, or a disqualification would results.

Two such disqualifications favoured Canadian teams. The men's 4x200 free relay advanced to the final when the Soviets were disqualified after an unofficial time of 7:22. The Chinese girls were called for an early takeover in the 4x100 medley (unofficial time of 4:11). This allowed the Canadian girls to earn a bronze in the final.

TV coverage exhausting...

The Olympic television coverage left the impression that only a few people were worth watching. While scores of fine athletes performed, it was more important to see and hear endless chats between commentators, inane vignettes, national anthems played over and over, too much flag waving and those endless commercials.

The impression was CBC was interrupting its commercials for an occasional Olympic break. Federal regulations allow 12 minutes of commercials each hour. A minute could mean two 15 or 30 second ads, as many as 36 messages in an hour.

Particularly irritating was the constant interruption of the event being shown by cutting away to another sport. In order to see one evening's events—about 20-25 minutes of actual swimming, one would have to sit through four to five hours of constant interruptions... Surely with most things being taped a better way can be found.

Thanks to CBC host Brian Williams for difficult job well done, and swimming expertly covered by veteran Ted Reynolds and commentator Byron MacDonald. One question...why was Alex Baumann not at poolside? It would cost another $50,000 to buy him a spot in the media area in the pool, that's why!

The Hungarian Connection...

American breaststroker Mike Barrowman improved five seconds this year in his 200 breaststroke. The help he got from Hungarian coach Jozsef Nagy has been the big difference.

Barrowman won the US Trials in 2:13.74 and finished fourth in Seoul.

Nagy, 36, came to the USA when his wife Piroska, took a banking job in Washington, D.C.

After four weeks of staying home with their children, aged six and seven he "began to go crazy". He wound up coaching with Richard Curl at Curl's club in suburban Maryland.

He's getting increasingly homesick and will return to Hungary next April when his wife's assignment ends.

Nagy's expertise with breaststroke was evident as three of the eight finalists were his swimmers—Jozsef Szabo's 2:13.52 was enough for the gold. Another Hungarian, Peter Szabo (no relation) finished eighth.

Flawed Soviet sport ways effective...

Sports victories are vital to the Soviet economy.

"When the national team wins, productivity in the factories improves," says Yevgeny Petrov, a National Sports Committee member and a 1968 gold medalist in shooting.

The Soviet Union's Olympians will include athletes who have had their ear lobes stimulated by laser beams, their limbs injected with performance-aiding oxygen and their sore muscles treated in pressure chambers.

But shortcomings in this period of glasnost are now revealed about a sports system the West long considered unbeatable.

Facilities are lacking in the world's largest nation. They only have 2,500 swimming pools, which is less than the number in pools in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Soviets admit the GDR has gained rapidly and now has a superior selection process for channelling children into sport, once considered a Soviet forte.

"Our system of picking young athletes is really so poor" says Vladimir Gheskin, foreign editor of the 5.1 million circulation Soviet Sport newspaper. "For example, we have 200,000 competitors in the biathlon, and the GDR have only 12. At the Winter Olympics, they won two golds and we won one. Obviously, it means they know how to pick people better than we do."

Glasnost, Gheskin says, has forced Soviet leaders to rethink their approach to sport.

"You can win all the gold medals, but if you don't have bread in the shops, it is nothing."

All of which begs the question of how—with inadequacies in equipment, organization, facilities and even nutrition—do Soviets continue to dominate Olympic sports?

"We've learned to overcome hardships more than anyone else in the world," Gheskin explained.

OLYMPIC STATS

The big story of the Olympics is the continuing decline of the United States.

In 1968 their medal total was 51. Twenty years later it's down to 18.

The five World Championships have been included togther with the Olympics for the 20 year period.

Since 1980 the GDR medal totals have remained in the same range.

Some other important statistics:

● To reach finals 56.7% of the women, and 49% of the men swam faster than their season or lifetime best.

● Once in the final, 80% of the women and 64% of the men swam faster than their heat swim.

● In order to win a medal 82% of the women and 74% men had to swim faster than their season or lifetime best.

These figures reinforce the importance of having swimmers prepared to do their best.

The bottom chart compares six leading countries and their percentage of best swims.

FINA NEWS

Canada was successful in having Flip Filippelli elected to the Swimming Technical Committee of FINA, during meetings held in Seoul, prior to the Olympic Games.

Margaret McLennan from Vancouver, was successful in her quest to become the first female to reach the Bureau, or the Executive Committee of the governing body of international swimming. Mrs. McLennan has been a long time representative of Canadian Synchronized Swimming.

Ross Wales, from the United States (bronze medal winner in the 100 fly in 1968) has been elected honorary secretary, replacing Allan Harvey from Vancouver who stepped down after four years. Mustapha Larfaoui of Algeria was elected as president, the federation's highest position, replacing Robert Helmick of the USA.

Other decisions arrived by FINA:

The federation eliminated a complicated definition of an amateur and dropped the word from its rules, keeping it only in its name.

A swimmer will be regarded as a professional—and therefore ineligible to compete at the Olympics or world championships—only if he or she lives entirely on earnings from swimming (such as appearance fees, endorsements and coaching jobs).

Swimmers may earn money from their sport without endangering their elgibility as long as it is kept in a trust fund.

Ruled illegal was a move used by some butterfly swimmers coming out of turns on their backs and kicking underwater before resuming the fly stroke. Some flyers in the USA took advantage of a dispute over the interpretation of the rule to gain a slight advantage.

Not discussed prior to the Olympics was the new development of a 'submarine backstroke' technique where swimmers stay underwater for most of the first length and kick a reverse dolphin. The Bureau will be discussing this matter following the Olympics and a change to the regulations may be announced to come into force during 1989.

WORLD CUP SERIES

The inaugural Swimming World Cup series will get under way in December, with a Canadian meet at the Etobicoke Olympium.

The ten meet circuit will span North America, Australia and Europe from mid December 1988 through late February 1989.

Hosting countries will undertake to cover accommodation expenses for a team of 12 competitors from each nation hosting meets on the World Cup. Canada's expects to spend $40,000 for European and other swimmers to attend its meet. The format of each meet will vary but individuals must enter through their respective national association.

Each country will undertake to have its meet televised and provide the other participating nations a feed of the events where their swimmers have been prominent.

Prize money will not be available, mostly due to lack of sufficient sponsor interest.

The ten meet circuit will be as follows:

Date	Meet
Dec 15-17	Canadian International, Etobicoke, Ontario (SCM)
Dec 18-20	USS Open, Indianapolis, (LCM)
Jan 6-8	World Cup, Perth, Australia
Jan 27-29	World Cup, Holland (SCM)
Feb 3-5	Coca Cola Meet, Paris, (SCM)
Feb 6-8	NOK Meet, Berlin, GDR (LCM)
Feb 10-12	Arena Meet, Bonn, FRG (SCM)
Feb 14-15	Gothenburg, Sweden (LCM)
Feb 17-19	Venice Cup, Italy (SCM)
Feb 24-26	London, England (SCM)

Points will be kept for each stroke/distance.

The dates of the Canadian meet are scheduled to allow swimmers from the European Cup to fly over, compete in Etobicoke and then travel to the USS Open in Indianapolis.

Canadian swimmers may enter the Dec.15-17 Canadian International only as follows:

- Member of the 1988 Olympic Team,
- 1988 Summer national finalists and consolation finalists,
- finalists and consoltion finalists from the Nov.25-27 Canada Cup.

TAG (TOP AGE GROUP TIMES)

- Monthly, throughout the competitive season a ranking list of the 25 best age group performances is published in SWIM Canada Magazine.
- Twice yearly, a special 50-deep list is published in SWIM Canada Magazine, with short course performances in April and long course performances in October.
- Provincial sections are requested to circulate and publicize these cut-offs to all clubs hosting sanctioned meets.
- Meet managers are requested to send, as soon after the completion of the meet, but no later than 6 days, a complete set of results which should clearly indicate the following: date of competition, pool size, list of clubs participating, club codes in use, and team scores if they are kept.
- Results should show exact age of all participants as of date of competition.
- TAG is starting its 15th consecutive year. Its success depends largely on the co-operation from the many hundreds of volunteers who host competitions throughout Canada. You can help most by insuring that your meet results are sent promptly with all the requested information.

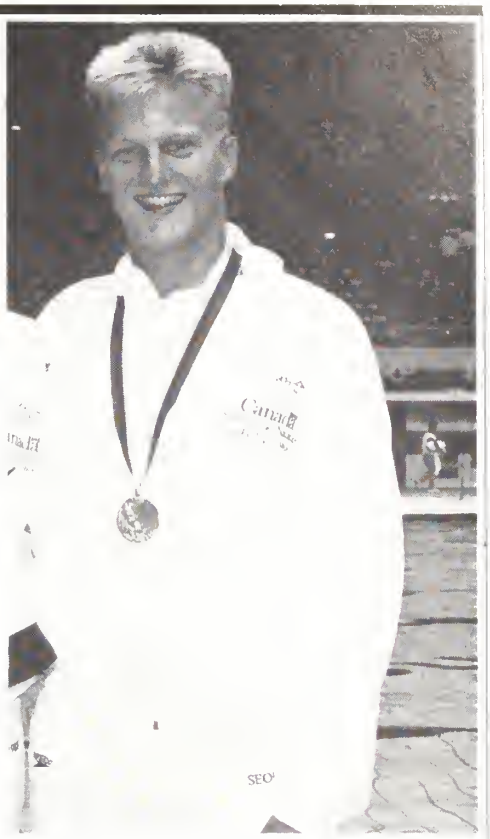
SANDY GOSS ON: SPRINTING THE 100 FREESTYLE



Sandy Goss with his silver medal for anchoring the 4x100 medley relay in Seoul. He'll add it to his 1984 silver for the same relay.

WARM-UP

In the morning I like to get a good long warm-up. I don't do anything fast. I start with a 300 stroke drill and a 300 kick and then I do a 200 pull and a 300 swim. By then I'm usually pretty loosened up. I do a little back, fly and free. I do some easy swimming with sprints just to get my heart rate up. After that I get timed for a push 15, and if I'm really warmed up I go into my 25's, either 25 fly or free. That is the morning.

At night I will shorten that down quite a bit. I'll do a 800 swim, kick, pull. I do a 2x25 free and make the second one faster. I also correct things that I didn't do quite right on the first one.

BEFORE THE RACE

Get your mind focused on what you are going to do; the start, the turn ,where you are going to add your legs into the race, where to really bring in your arms, when you are going to breathe and when not to breathe. Two stroke out of the wall you don't breathe, two strokes into the wall you aren't going to breathe.

Go over those little things while you are behind the blocks, but not over-emphasizing them. They should happen like they have been in practice.

STARTS

I don't know if there is much difference between a freestyle start or any other sprint event like fly. In free you want to pop up fast and start swimming. Come to the surface of the water at the speed you want to be swimming at. Have one hand on top of the other when you dive in the water. Make sure that you are stretched out and that you pushed off with your toes. You want to pop right up on top of the water.

I think false starts are a pain. I don't think there should be any. If there is one I take that opportunity to come down faster the next time because the starter usually thinks that he will nail us then. Come down quickly and that is when you can take advantage of the opportunity. Everyone will be left behind.

THE RACE

You have to sprint an entire 100. On the first lap you make sure you aren't losing water on your stroke or spinning. Check that you aren't lopsided on your breathing.

When you get to the wall you really want to hit that turn. Don't breathe two or three strokes out from the wall . Hit the wall and make sure you have a good push off. You have to be streamlined with your hands on top of the other. Don't breathe for two or three strokes coming off the turn. It's these little things that put you ahead of the pack.

The second 50 is when I try to put it to everybody. Remember that everybody is hurting just as badly or even worse than you are. That is when you move on them. You've been training for this race and this is where all that training pays off.

With 40 metres to go kick it into gear. I'm an arms dominated swimmer so I try to accelerate with my arms. I bring my legs up to the surface a little more and dig in with my arms making sure I'm not slipping. Just thinking about acceleration is going to help you accelerate.

In a really good race you won't remember too much about it. Thoughts or keys words just click into your head for a tenth of a second.

If you've been practicing it all the time it just happens. You don't have to worry about it.

FINISH

The finish makes a big difference. I've been behind and touched first because I've finished well. It's like doing a vertical jump. You are completely on your side with your hand stretched out. That is how you are the longest (tallest). You should be completely stretched out, with the hand that is going to touch the wall underneath you. Time it right and you will be driving into the wall. You won't have to take an extra stroke.

DRILLS

We do a series of 16, 14, 12, 10 sets of 50's with about 300 in between each series. The 50's are on a minute and trying to go race pace 200. I aim for 27's on the minute, then try to work down to 26's.

We do a lot of stroke drills. The best one is the stick drill. You have a stick about 10" long in one hand. Hold the stick up in front of you, do your arm pull with the other arm, go up and grab the stick and do another stroke with the other arm. Do that for a 50 or 100.

We do a lot of single and double arm drills. They really help you to concentrate on specific of the stroke.

I don't know if younger kids should use paddles because it can wreck their shoulders.Once you get older the paddles help. I usually don't use them. I might use them for a 300, but I always do a 200 without paddles after to make sure my stroke is the same as with the paddles.

When I set the 100 free record I was having fun, so that is my advice for anyone who is in swimming. You can't get too serious about it all. It's not a life or death situation. It's a great sport so enjoy it.

If you go your best time, that's great, but if you didn't just try to figure out what you did wrong in the race andhow to improve the next race. Don't just think of the negative things, also remember what you did well and you can help yourself improve. ■

HOLY VISION, BATMAN...

IT'S LEADER!

Take a gasp at Leader's new line of world-class goggles: The CRYSTAL, SENIOR BUBBLE, and MPA. These are mean designs that look good, and stay on tight. Why? Because each model is armed with the notorious "poly-seal". A protective cloak against salt and chlorine. And they're tough too – a secret polycarbonate formula that stands up to any avenger.

"Ok, Batman, I think I get the picture. This is some dynamic trio."

BACKWASH

Backwash features short clips, gossip, letters and opinion. Contributions are welcomed. Now for the rumours behind the news.

Doctor, is it suppose to bend both ways? The Olympics were not the most memorable meet for Vlastimil Cerny. On top of a back injury, he broke his elbow falling off one of the bikes supplied to the swim team. Our doctors in Seoul mis-diagnosed it as bruised and not until he stopped into a hospital in Sudbury while driving from Toronto to his new home in Winnipeg, did he find out what was really wrong.

But why is the wall requesting a rabies test? Picture a sunny pool deck in Australia. In the water is an exhausted Julie MacDonald. She tells her coach, Laurie Lawrence, that she is in too much pain to continue. He walks across the pool deck to a rough cement wall, makes a fist and grinds his knuckles into the cement until they are a bloodied mess, walks back to her and says, "Swimming's not pain. This is pain." She puts on her goggles and continues training. Lesson learned. MacDonald becomes the 1988 Olympic bronze medalist in the 800 free.

Canadian class. Anthony Mosse of New Zealand, 1988 Olympic bronze medalist in the 200 fly, can't thank the Canadians enough for the help they gave him this year. And he isn't referring to the training he did with Etobicoke.

"While I was in California earlier this summer I found out that my father was dying," he said. "I was in a tremendous rush to get to the Los Angeles airport. It didn't seem I'd make it until the Canadian team made a van available and went out of their way to get me to the airport. I wouldn't have got home in time without them."

Hey guys, this isn't what they meant by altitude training. While other countries this summer were in the delicate process of fine tuning their swimmers for the toughest competition of the past 12 years, Canada was experimenting with a bizarre rest and taper program.

Here is how the summer went for most of our national team members. Starting late May; fly to Montréal for Olympic Trials and fly home. Fly to California for training camp and two meets, fly home. Fly to Summer Nationals in Toronto. Fly to Utah. Fly to Vancouver. Fly to Seoul.

Our swimmers were sure to be at their best after they had logged 100,000 or so air miles.

If they get rid of rhythmic gymnastics and synchro we can get it into the next Olympics. While some people may say that Canadians are dull, there are always those who are willing to disprove them. It seems that while they were in Korea some of our more energetic coaches decided to teach the Koreans one of our great Canadian sports; Indian leg wrestling. Their student, a deputy police chief in Seoul, proved to be a quick study and defeated one of the coaches, but Canada was able to save face by winning the overall match. Apparently this Canuck version of the lazy man's Kung-Fu captivated and delighted the Korean crowd.

Quote of the month. "There is nothing like the Olympics. And there is nothing like returning home to 400 screaming girls." Mark Tewksbury on arrival in Calgary.

Bulls Eye!

Editor: What is Canada going to do now that Olympic swimming is over for another four years, and our swimmers have failed to perform to expectation? Having followed Canadian swimming for 40 years, it is unfair to put the blame on the swimmers. The swimmers put in the hours—the years of training, their desire to succeed at the World level is there. Canada's coaches and SNC must take the blame.

Sport is like business. Weak management, poor administration, always produce an inferior product, a product which cannot succeed in the world market. We need a swimming federation and coaches who know what they are doing. It is time to bring in experts who know how to develop and expand our swimming program. It won't cost the clubs more; our present coaches are already amongst the highest paid in the world.

Paul Bergen and Deryk Snelling developed the majority of our Olympic team. The Johnsons (Dave and Tom), who control much of swimming decisions made at the national level, should be removed from their pedestals. Sport Canada should look into the background of our coaches. Are they certified physical education teachers, physiologists, psychologists, doctors in sports medicine?

After the success of the 1976 Olympics, Canada launched a swimming program which has changed direction with each season. Instead of rising in world standings it has dropped. Could it be that the program set up by the national coaches ruined the chances of our swimmers at the Olympics?

Why two swimming Trials, the first four months before the Games? The team selection for the 1986 World Championships was held six months before the Worlds. Canada's poor showing there had the coaches in agreement that the main problem was probably due to too early selection. Two years later, the same mistake is repeated.

How many dollars actually go to funding carded swimmers compared to those spent to pay the salaries at the association?

Almost $50 million has been pumped into amateur sport by our federal government. Add to this the amount spent by provincial governments who support provincial associations and the monies paid out by the families of our athletes. Where are the results? If no changes are made, Canada will again spend millions and come out of the 1992 Olympics with the same shameful results.

Reply from Europe

Editor: As a German national age group coach I disagree with the opinions expressed by Ian Curry (European Jr. Champs, August 1988, #141). You can't compare Europe with its ten or more different approaches to swimming in Canada. Just as there is no "German" way to swim, there is no European way.

We have nine and ten year olds in regional competition and in hard practice. The fact that we have no national championships for them does not tell anything about the time they spend in the water. 60% of our age groupers in the national youth team go from a small regional club to a big government supported centre during the three years, from age 12 to 15, that they spend on the youth team.

SPEAKING OUT

JIM FOWLIE TELLS IT LIKE IT IS

We should have had only six or eight of our kids competing at the Olympics.

Canadians are very good national and B team swimmers. Except for the finalists everybody else would have done well to have swum on our B team in Moscow and strengthened our team there. It would have given them a positive experience.

We can't have both participation and excellence. We have to do some hard soul searching after the Olympic results. Our results were below average.

I think that Canadians geuninely want to be a participation country.

We host the Olympic Games. We are great hosts, but we don't want to put our neck on the line.

For example we will probably do quite well at this new World Cup series, until it develops into something major like the world skiing cup, then the "big guys" will come into it seriously and do some work on us. When it comes down to standing up at World Championships and the Olympic Games, we have difficulties.

Some of the problems at the Games were the same problems we had in 1976. We haven't learned.

They had to have meetings inside of meetings inside of meetings. And coaches from the larger clubs had their own team meetings.

The Canadians and Americans had more coaches there than you could shake a stick at. We had four coaches there, who weren't on staff, watching the meet and sitting almost in with the team. I was one of them. We did video taping and things like that. The Americans also had 10 coaches on staff and another half dozen who were hanging around. If you turn around and look at the East Germans or Soviets they had much smaller groups of coaches. And every one of their coaches who was there was choosen to go and was there for a purpose.

You can only have one chief. If you aren't going to follow the chief's rules then it's not going to work.

On the Canadian team everyone was a chief. The only one who seemed to play his role was Tom (Johnson). The others seemed to be going off in separate directions.

As a result the swimmers were not a cohesive group. There were some Finals sessions where, out of the 33 Canadian swimmers, there were maybe be 10 watching the meet. The coaches would let the swimmers go. They should have been there every night supporting their teammates.

If you want to watch successful coaches take a look at Laurie Lawrence from Australia. Watch him on deck and he has the bleechers cheering for his kid. Not the kid who is winning, but his kid. He really controls that.

TheEast Germans, Soviets and Americans have a lot more confidence in themselves than we do and that shows at the big meets.

Canadian coaches seem to be intimidated by the slicker Americans and the smoother talking British and Australian coaches.

We are like the college coach, the guys who are good at CIAU's, but never perform at nationals. They show up at the meet and use it as a recruiting tool or self-promotion.

> Coaches have little pressure to produce, it's not the Canadian way. There are very few times a coach's job is on the line.

We had part of the solution; Don Talbot. Nobody came along and pointed out to the swimmers that he had more Olympic medalists and world record holders than any other coach in the world.

Most coaches didn't understand him. He wasn't 'sold' to their swimmers. Once the swimmers became negative it was all over for him.

We deserve what happened because we had part of the solution right here.

The danger Canadian swimming is in is that if we continue to follow the same people it wil become increasingly a political game, not an athletic game.

I don't know if our people are willing to make the sacrifices that other countries are willing to make.

We complained about our standards, but they were easy by world standards. The Soviet standard to make the Olympic team was tenth in the world.

Coaches have little pressure to produce, it's not the Canadian way. There are very few times a coach's job is on the line.

Another major problem is the way our system is structured. We have to fit our training in between the recreational uses for the pools. Nobody in Parks and Recreation at North York gets any credit for Sandy Goss winning a second silver medal. Nobody gets a pat on the back, but also nobody's job is on the line if we don't produce. There is no incentive for them to help the competitive clubs. The only place that might be the case is at Pointe Claire.

In the Soviet Union the system comes down hard on the coaches if they don't produce. It wasn't Salnikov who got critized when he wasn't swimming well, it was his coach.

Canadian swimmers are being flogged. Our exercise physiologists are out to lunch. They just don't understand what we are asking them to find out. It's recovery and regeneration.

Not one of them know anything about that. Not one of them knows anything about the benefits of massage therapy or sauna therapy or hydrotherapy.

The eastern bloc countries are so far ahead of us in this area. What we should look things like amino acids, protein drinks, electrolite drinks, that area. They don't enhance performances like steroids do, they help you recover faster.

My club is a good age group club, but we are certainly not prepared to do the budgeting for an international class program. In 1973 CDSC was able to get funding for B-12 shots. Now we can't budget for that. In 12 - 15 years we've actually regressed.

Our exercise physiologists don't even know what type of sleep is best for our swimmers. The Soviet sprinters were doing three workouts a day. Their coach felt the last workout, 7:30-9:30 p.m, was the best of the day and they knew the best sleep patterns for their swimmers. These are areas our people haven't even started to look at.

Until we really start to attack these problems and use the knowledge that is out there, Canada will continue to flounder. ■
